„Beep ... beep ... beep!"

Shit!

James hated it to have to wait for him, and James already had passed security check, so Jason's heart rate reached 170 beats per minute.

"Sir, please lift your arms", the tall and muscular security lady commanded.

She felt him up with gloved hands, forcefully enough to leave bruises, and Jason gave a yelp.

"What?"

Her icy eyes stared at him.

"No ... nothing, ma'am", he stuttered.

"Good".

She studied the inscription on the metal pendant of Jason's necklace in her hand.

"Property of J. Hetfield".

She patted Jason's blushed cheek, smiling.

"Good boy!"
